

A funny thing happened on the way to ice cream with my friends

Kristy, Charley, and I were on our way to ice cream. It was a Friday. We had just finished school which ends at 2:00. We were on our way to ice cream when a portal appeared. None of us saw it because we were too busy laughing about my joke. But we accidentally walked into it.

“Woah.” Kristy said. Charley said, “What happened?” I said in question, “I think we just got sucked into space?” “No, it doesn’t look like space, it looks more like a purple tornado” Charley decided. “I think it’s a”- said Kristy. “No let’s stop guessing and maybe we’ll see what it is if we get out of this thing.” I interrupted.

“Finally, we’re out.” said Kristy.” “Phew” said Charley and I relieved. “Wait, is that a portal?” I said. “Let’s run into the portal so we can get back again!” Kristy said. As soon as Kristy said that it disappeared. “No, now we’ll have to find another way to get home.” Kristy said sadly. “I guess we’re going on an adventure.” said Charley.

“Ahh a snake!” Kristy screamed. The snake just smiled. “I don’t think it’s harmful.” Charley said. “I don’t see why it would smile and not attack us.” “Me too.” agreed Kristy and me.

“Look there’s a door.” said Charley. “Maybe we should go in it.” I said. “Let’s go.” Kristy decided.

“Woah, this bouncy house is the size for a giant.” I said. “Why would someone want to live here?” “What would this even be used for?” asked Charley. “I don’t know.” said Kristy. “Let’s find out!” I said.

A minute later a giant clown appeared. “Look a giant clown!” Charley said loudly. “Hi, do you want to play?” said the clown in a voice that was loud to us. All three of us said at the same time, “No thanks!” And then we ran into a doorway with no door, that the clown couldn’t fit through.

After that there was a maze. Luckily, I was an expert at finding my way through mazes and the maze was not that hard, so we got through quickly.

When we got out, we were in a quidditch court like the one from Harry Potter but there was a trampoline in the middle of it. There was also a fence around it probably because the clown didn't want you leaving. But what the clown didn't prevent you from getting out with was the very bouncy trampoline. It was so bouncy that it could get you over the fence which was about a hundred feet tall.

Meanwhile we were thinking about how to get out when I had an idea. "Girls, maybe we can jump on that trampoline." I said. "But could a trampoline actually bounce us over that high fence?" said Kristy questionably. "It's worth a shot." I said. I tried it. "Yes, it worked!" I said excitedly. "Now try." We all made it over than walked 2 miles. But sadly, the clown spotted us. "You, people since you escaped me you will get cannons shot at you." "You must survive 5 cannons to move on." And then I screamed, "Run!" We all ran as he shot a couple cannons, but he couldn't get us. "Fine, I give up, it was me who opened the portal here." groaned the clown. "Here's a portal home." And when he said that a portal opened. "Let's go." I said.

"Yes, we're finally home." said Kristy. "I'm so happy." said Charley. "What time is it?" I said. "It's 3:00." said Kristy who had a watch on her hand. "Good." I said. "That leaves us an hour to get home." "Do you still want to get ice cream." said Charley. "Sure." I said. "After that adventure I need some ice cream."

"How about all of us get chocolate." I said. "Sounds good." said Charley and Kristy together. "Can we please have 3 chocolate ice creams." They scooped them for us. "Ok, now let's go home." "This was a strange day." I said. "Yes." said Kristy. "I agree." said Charley. "Well, who knows why it happened, goodbye." I said. "Bye." They said. The End