

Splat of a day

I woke up and looked around, my house is pink. This is not my color. I am a green inkling.

The town is all pink.

I have to find my best friend Inky. As I run to our hide out I see Inky's name on the sploches.

I am so confused.

At the hide out Inky
was waiting for me.
He was so excited
that he turned the towh pink. I tell him that people are mad because their colors matter.
He looks around and ^{understands that} he made a mistake. He is so sorry and needs my help to fix it.

I tell him we need to go to the King's Castle to get the golden blaster.

It was a tough journey. We had to go through the highest mountains past the World of Fun. We had to eat only healthy food and not be tempted by the sugary treats. Then we went to the Blank

space, where we ran away from the Blank
spots who were trying to erase us.
Finally we got to the castle and found the King.

Inky tells the King the truth and asks for the golden
blaster. The King
agrees and tells us

he is proud of us.
We go back to our town and fire a rainbow blast that changes all the colors
back to normal.
Everybody is so happy
that they decide to throw us a surprise party! This has been the best day ever.
